DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3-7, 9 and 10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 3-7, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Merriam (US 6,408,187) in view of Wu et al (US 2004/0192262A1) and further in view of Murray (US 6,154,644).

Regarding claims 1 and 7, Merriam teaches a method of presenting an information item on a mobile device (see column 1, lines 7-53), the method comprising the steps of: retrieving an identification of at least one of user gear and apparel (see column 1, lines 56 to column 2, lines 51, see "belt" and it reads on applicant's "apparel"), the apparel providing the mobile device with information on the user's context or environment (see column 7, lines 54-61, see "environmental"), determining a mode reflecting at least one attribute of identified gear and apparel and optionally sending the mode with an identification of the mobile device to a service provider (see column 6, lines 32-45), and determining and presenting the information item dependent on the mode (see column 1, lines 56 to column 2, lines 51 and column 6, lines 32-45), receiving a first message from a caller sent to the mobile device (see column 6, lines 21-31, see "incoming communication", and column 6, lines 31-45, see "contact").

Merriam does not specifically disclose determining a second message dependent on the mode, when the first message is received and sending the second message to the caller as a response to the first message.

Wu teaches determining a second message dependent on the mode (see [0003], see "modes" and "message"), when the first message is received and sending the second message to the caller as a response to the first message (see [0003], see "modes", "message" and "caller").

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the teaching of Wu into the system of Merriam so that the caller can understand why a phone call is refused to answer and the user can save a telephone fee (see WU, Abstract).

The combination of Merriam and Wu does not specifically disclose providing the mobile device with information relating to what the user is doing.

Murray teaches providing the mobile device with information relating to what the user is doing (see column 3, lines 13-17, see "engaged in a call" reads on applicant's "the user is doing").

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the teaching of Murray into the system of Merriam and Wu to order to provide a calling party with a choice of call handling options when a called mobile station is either busy or inactive (see Murray, Abstract).

Regarding claim 3, the combination of Merriam, Wu and Murray further teaches the step of determining a second message comprises the steps of: sending the mode with an identification of the mobile device to a service provider (see Wu, [0003], see "modes" and "message"), and determining the second message based on the received mode and the identification of the mobile device on the service provider (see Wu, [0003], see "modes", "message" and "caller").

Regarding claims 4 and 10, Merriam further teaches modifying at least one attribute of gear and apparel (see column 1, line 56 to column 2, line 7).

Regarding claim 5, Merriam further teaches the mobile device is a personal digital assistant, palm top, cell phone or a mobile phone (column 1, lines 11-37, see "mobile phone").

Regarding claim 6, Merriam further teaches a computer program product comprising program code means stored on a computer readable medium for performing the method of any one of claims 1 through 5 when the computer program is run on a computer (see column 3, lines 18-25).

Regarding claim 9, the combination of Merriam, Wu and Murray further teaches determining a second message comprises: means for sending the mode with an identification of the mobile device to a service provider (see Wu, [0003], see "modes" and "message"), where the service provider determines the second message (see Wu, [0003], see "modes", "message" and "caller").

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
